Q: WHAT MAKES YOU WANT TO PAINT FISH?

Derek: First off, I'm an obsessed fisherman and I guess I always have been. This obsession has a chokehold on my brain, and my right brain has bought into it. So fish are not only what I dream of catching, they are also my favorite thing to paint. I've been painting them for a long time now, and it has never gotten boring. The more I learn about fish out on the river, lake, or ocean, the more ideas I have for making new artwork. The day I stop fishing will be the same day I stop painting fish.

Q: WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE THING ABOUT BEING AN ARTIST?

Derek: My favorite part of my job is putting the finishing touches on a painting. A painting that derived not from a photo, but from a thought. Then the thought is expressed in a sketch, and finally the thought comes to life as a finished piece of art! This process delivers a sense of accomplishment, that I'd argue few other jobs could compare with. Then to deliver this painting to a client that is in touch with and appreciates the stress, effort, time and care that I have put into their painting... there is nothing better.

Q: WHEN DID YOU FIRST DISCOVER YOUR TALENT FOR PAINTINGS AND OTHER ART?

Derek: I remember as a young child, how exciting drawing was for me. I was the youngest child in a family of three boys, and art quickly became what I was known for. In the 5th grade, I entered a youth wildlife art competition with a painting of a largemouth bass with a frog hanging out of his mouth. I was awarded second place, and the man who announced the winners offered to buy my painting right there on stage...I was hooked! I have been painting ever since, and though I wasn't even sure if the job existed, it was then that I decided I wanted to be a fish artist.

The DeYoung Difference

DeYoung's studio is located on Old Mission Peninsula in Northwest Michigan. The Peninsula is surrounded by endless sand and boulder flats, teeming with Carp, Smallmouth and Lake Trout.

DeYoung lived in Livingston, Montana for almost a decade and continues to spend the month of September there, floating the rivers, and being inspired by the magnificent landscape. The past eight years, DeYoung and his wife Janell have migrated to the Florida Keys during the Winter months where he hunts (and finds inspiration from) Tarpon, Permit, Bonefish and Barracuda. DeYoung has a very unique approach to fish art. His compositions, palettes and themes tend to vary by the week and he's always pushing the boundaries in his art.
